Children Separated from Parents.

Cooler weather brought three hundred thou sand visitors to Coney Island yesterday, nearly one-third of whom were children. Crowds came early in the morning, and the usual Sunday afternoon rush from the city to the seaside fell off greatly, although the steamboats were almost crowded beyond their limit until evening, when a general rush for home began. The public beach at Seaside Park resembled an army encampment on Saturday night, when several hundred slept on the beach in preference to returning to the hot city.

The Ocean Parkway was congested with automobiles and carriages, and not a few machines were detained on the roadside between Prospect Park and the ocean by minor breakdowns. No serious accidents, however, were recorded up to evening, when Captain Dooley sent an extra squad of mounted police to guard against probable automobile speeders. The beaches were densely crowded by bathers, and not in the history of Coney Island have so many visitors been recorded at the bath houses,

At Brighton Beach, a line was formed early in the morning by those who desired to take a dip in the ocean. At noon the line extended to the Brighton Beach Hotel, and it was with dif-Sculty that the police, under command of Captain Lindemann, of the Sheepshead Bay station, could prevent the crowd from sweeping through the ticket line. The special policemen were kept on duty until late in the evening, when the rush subsided. Extra life savers patrolled the beach from Sea Gate to Manhattan, while representatives of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps carefully guarded the inland creeks,

The result was that only one death from drowning was reported. Albert Pugh, of No. 114 14th-st., Brooklyn, was bathing near the Sea Beach Railroad bridge. He left the water to rest on the structure, when, frightened by an ning express train, he dived from the draw into three feet of water, striking his head against a submerged pile. Hallie Shutz, a Coney Island boatman, attempted to rescue Pugh, but the body was carried far out of his reach into deeper water, and it was several minutes before he recovered the unconscious man, who died soon after he was taken ashore and before the arrival of Dr. Clay, of the Re-

SUPPLY OF LIQUOR SOON EXHAUSTED. Liquor flowed freely from one end of the island to the other, although the excise law was fairly well observed. Unusually lean sandwiches, which served as meals, made it possible for the hotel men quickly to exhaust their supply of cooling beverages. Only one excise arrest was made at Coney Island. Patrick Healey, of No. 139 East 18th-st., Manhattan, who is a bartender in the Luna Park restaurant, was bartender in the Luna Park restaurant, was charged with violating the Sunday law by Policeman O'Rourke, who said that he was served with two glasses of beer at the bar.

The Coney Island police station resembled a kindergarten at 6 o'clock, when eighty children were huddled in the squadroom awaiting to be claimed by their guardians. In the deskroom scores of mothers and fathers were frantically calling for their lost little ones who had not been found by the police, and for a time an unusual sight prevalled when the rightful relatives of the youngsters appeared. Acting Sergeant Brown introduced a new method of taking care of and returning the little ones to their guardians. Seats were placed in the squadroom in the same manner as at achool, and the children were placed in a row, making it comparatively easy for them to be found. Princess Montglyon, the wife of Captaln Jack Bonavita, ordered popcorn and candy sent to the strayed children, nearly all of whom were taken away before 8 o'clock. It was the greatest rush ever experienced in the Coney Island station, where scores of lost children are taken every Sunday.

At Dreamiand the visitors witnessed a thriling fight between an ostrich and William W. Ford, the owner, who, in an attempt to curb the rampage of the hird, was bady beaten and forced to apply to the Dreamland Emergency Hospital for assistance. His left arm and thigh were badly bruised and torn by kicks from the ostrich, which was finally captured by attendants from the Bostock show and returned to the inclusive.

BONAVITA UNABLE TO APPEAR.

Captain Jack Bonavita, still suffering from the wounds inflicted by Emperor, the beast which attacked him Saturday night, was unable to perform with his group of lions yesterday. His left hand was so badly lacerated by the animal that it was feared an amputation might be necessary. Dr. Frank Smith, who is attending Bonavita, bathed the wound several times and will recauterize it to-day.

Manhattan and Brightoh Beach closely ri-valled Coney Island in attendance. At "The Boer War" 80,000 visitors were present at the four performances. Bombs containing fifty ad-mission tickets were hurled from the arena high into the air, where they exploded, releasing the coupons, which fell among the promenaders on the boardwalk, who greatly enjoyed the scram-ble for free admissions to the evening perform-

The lost child squad was kept busy until late at night, and no less than thirty children were reclaimed by their parents in the administration building up to 8 o'clock. The "Fighting the Flames" and "Trip to the Moon" shows were well patronized by those who crowded the resort.

The Bowery and Surf-ave, were again congested in the afternoon, and extreme precautions on the part of the police prevented serious accidents there. A DRY SUNDAY IN QUEENS.

Saloon Proprietors Cautious After Commissioner M'Adoo's Warning.

Sunday was a blue day in Queens Borough, The announcement made by Police Commissioner Mo-Adoo early in the week that he would send strange Adoo early in the week that he would send strange pelicemen into the borough in citizens' clothes made the proprietors of drinking places remarkably careful. It was practically impossible for a stranger to get liquid refreshments unless he was willing to order a meal more substantial than the regulation sandwich. Long Island City saloons presented gloomy exteriors and only regular customers stood a chance of getting in.

At North Beach resorts proprietors took warning from Commissioner MeAdoo's statement and kept close to the law. There was a big crowd of visitors throughout the d.y and the police had nothing to do.

CONEY ATTRACTS 300,000. INCREASE OF DESERTIONS

One Drowning Accident - Eighty State Charities Aid Association Issues Its Report.

The growth of wife and child desertion among foreign immigrants to this country is commented on in detail by the State Charities Aid Association of New-York in its thirty-second annual report. The report says:

The evergrowing immigration problem touches as deeply along two lines—wife and child desertion and illegitimacy. In no other country is commitment of children so easy. To our foreign brother, it appears quite as a custom of the country. The institution appeals to him as a sort of superior order of public school, where his children not only acquire the language, but are sheltered, fed and clothed at no expense to him. His sense of the paternal relation steadily de-creaces as the city fathers assume his responsibilities. He soon learns that to render himself invisible for the time being greatly facilitates the business, and nothing is easier for a man who finds himself with an uncomfortable number of children for his wages and house room to step aside until the city has relieved him of his burden, or a goodly proportion of it. As we meet the desertion problem in our work we find the causes various—differing somewhat with differnt nationalities.

The influx of foreigners, according to statistics from 1898 up to the beginning of last October, has doubled the number of different nationalities of destitute women under charitable supervision, from eleven to twenty-two. Of the 256 helpless mothers with infants who were placed in good homes during the year ending last September, 143 were deserted wives. Five years ago, the report states, German and Swedish mothers were the principal beneficiaries, but since that time colored women have made their entry into the home supplying families in large numbers.

The society reports that a method has been discovered whereby from 100 to 200 infants annually-street waifs, most of them-who formerly died in charitable institutions before reaching the age of two years, are now not only saved but from the gutter and the doorsteps where they were found, are adopted into the best of families and grow up as respected children of the community. Formerly these children were placed in foundling homes. The new plan is to place each one of them temporarily in some private family.

WEALTHY MEN IN FIGHT.

Two, Said To Be New-Yorkers, Accused of Assault.

Three members of the Siwanoy Country Club, one of the best-known golf clubs around New-York, it is alleged severely assaulted H. K. Keller, a wealthy monument dealer, in Mount Vernon Saturday night. Mr. Keller was on his way home with his wife. The men knocked him down and beat him almost insensible. Mr. Keller, although almost blinded from the attack, followed his assailants until he met Patrolman Conklin.

Two of the assailants, said to be wealthy New-Yorkers, escaped from Mount Vernon, but the third was arrested. He was identified as W. H. Irwin, who is a salesman for a carriage establishment in this city and lives at No. 283 Summit-ave., Mount Vernon. Irwin was arrested on two charges, one of assault and the other of drunk and disorderly conduct. Irwin declares he is innocent, and blames his two companions, but refuses to give their names, as he says they are prominent New-York business

Mrs. Keller, in aiding her husband, got the hat of one of the men who escaped. It contained the initials "T. W. S. P." It is believed that the hat may lead to the identification of one of Mr. Keller's assallants.

Irwin was arraigned yesterday before Judge Simpson, who is also a member of the Siwanoy Club, and pleaded not guilty. His trial was set down for Tuesday. Sydney A. Wood, of the same club, appeared as Irwin's couns

When seen at his home last night, Mr. Keller said that he was returning with his wife from a trolley ride, and when near his home in Parkave, he saw three men staggering down the street, and he and his wife made room on the sidewalk for them to pass. As the men reached Mr. and Mrs. Keller, he alleged, they pushed them into a hedge fence. When Mr. Keller remonstrated, one of them exclaimed: "Get out of our way, or we will put your eve out"

"No, you won't," said Keller, and with this the three sprang upon him and knocked him down. While Keller was on the ground, he says, the men struck him several times in the face and kicked him. When he regained his feet, he said, "this is no way to use a gentleman returning home with his wife." With this, he says, Irwin apologized. The others staggered down the street.

Mr. and Mrs. Keller followed the men, expecting to meet a policeman, and have them arrested. When they reached the City Club, the two strangers again attacked Keller, knocked him down and administered another beating. The monument dealer cried for the police and the two strangers ran into a saloon and escaped in the darkness. Irwin went to the New-Haven station where he was arrested while waiting for his friends.

Mr. Irwin has a wife and two children who are well known in Mount Vernon. His friends are making every effort to cave Mr. Keller accept his apology and withdraw the charge against him. Mr. Keller last night said:

No apology can fix up my face. Look at it. It is a sight. If these men think they can attack a peaceful citizen without punishment they have met the wrong man. I intend to press the charge against Irwin, and will try my best to learn the names of his friends and punish them. I blame them more than Irwin. Mr. Irwin said:

Mr. Irwin said.

I am innocent of this charge. I was walking ahead of two other young men, when Mr. Keller made a remark which sounded to me like "drunks." The two men behind me then ran back at him. I went up and parted them. I committed no assault. I would not be a gentleman if I gave the names of the other two gentleman.

U.S. ENGINEER MURDERED

Killed in Quarrel with Civilian Over Army Criticism.

Baltimore, July 16.-Patrick Cummings, of Company E, United States Engineer Corps, was mur-dered by Hayes Donaldson, of this city, early this dered by Hayes Donaldson, of this city, early this morning at a small landing place on Curtis Creek, about ten miles from this city. The murderer escaped, notwithstanding his having been beaten into insensibility and left on the wharf for dead by Cummings and a number of other soldiers were returning in a launch that plies on the creek from this city to the rifle range at Glen Burnle, where their company is stationed.

Donaldson, who was one of several civilian passengers, is said to have created a disturbance by criticising the army, and, when he reached the wharf of the farm where he is employed, told the engineer of the launch to wait.

Obtaining a double-barreled shotgun, he returned, flustped into the launch and fired both barrels, apparently at random. Cummings was the only one hit, and his companions did not know that he was killed until after they had thrown Donaldson to the wharf, beaten him into unconsciousness and returned to the launch.

Cummings was a native of New-Jersey.

Board of Education Obtains Victory | SENATOR CLARK BETTER. in Important Case.

An important victory has been won by the Board of Education in a decision handed down in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the casof Miss Rose M. Finnigan, formerly a teacher in Public School No. 71, Queens, Because Miss Finnigan was permitted to teach after the expiration of the three years of probationary service she held that she was entitled to a permanent license. The charter provides that the City Superintendent 'may" give a teacher a permanent license after three years. The contention was made that "may" means "must," and that where a teacher has a fourth year of trial she is entitled to a permanent

Many similar suits have been brought in the last few years. These issues have been before seven justices at Special Term, and six have held that the City Superintendent must either refuse grant the permanent license at the end of the third year. The other held that the charter intended to give the City Superintendent power either to renew or make permanent the license at the end of the third year. Justice Miller, of the Appellate Division, has now rendered the following decision:

The relator was a teacher in the town of Flushing at the time of its consolidation with the greater city, and was the holder of a second grade School Commissioner's certificate, which, by its terms, exoired on July 31, 190. She continued to teach under a temporary license issued by the City Superintendent for a period of one year, at the expiration of which time it was successively renewed twice, the last renewal expiring June 36, 1902. She continued to teach, however, under a special license up to January, 1902, when she was officed by the City Superintendent that, owing to an unsatisfactory report on her work, her license would not be renewed further.

She now claims that both because she was a teacher in the territory included in the greater city at the time of consolidation, and because she had taught three years continuously under a temporary license, twice renewed, she is entitled to a permanent license, and that having retained her as a teacher under the special permit after the expiration of three years of service the city superintendent cannot now say that her work was not successful, but that the provision of section 1.089 of the charter that "at the close of the third year of continuous successful service the city superintendent may make the license permanent" is mandatory.

The mere fact that the relator was a teacher at the time of consolidation and held a school com-continuous successful service the city superIntendent may make the license permanent" is mandatory.

The mere fact that the relator was a teacher at the time of consolidation and held a school commissioner's certificate did not entitle her to become a member of the permanent teaching force of the school commissioner's certificate there of a first grade school commissioner's certificate there of a first grade school commissioner's certificate thereafter did not affect her status as a member of the teaching force of the city.

To succeed, therefore, she must establish the proposition that the word "may" in the portion of the section quoted means "must." After a teacher has become a member of the permanent force she is protected by statute from removal, except on charges preferred, and an opportunity to be heard, and it cannot be that it was ever designed by the State to take away from the licensing power all discretion in the first instance.

The fact that the teacher's tenure of office is so carefully guarded necessitates the greater care on the part of the city superintendent in making temporary licenses permanent, and requires that his discretion should not be interfered with. No reason is suggested why the permissory language of the statute should be construed as mandatory.

It is unnecessary to consider the cases relied on by the relator, bocause in each the teacher held a permanent certificate or its equivalent. The fact that the probationary term of three years was extended by the city superintendent by a special license cannot avail relator, because the additional opportunity was afforded her to demonstrate her fitness to receive a permanent license cannot be construed as a determination by the superintendent that she was entitled to one.

TENTING WITH 100,000 SOLDIERS.

Y. M. C. A. in National Guard Camps-Competes with Canteen for Soldiers' Patronage.

Canadian volunteers were called out to quell the Fenian raid at Black Rock, Canada, in 1866, the Young Men's Christian Association sent big tents, supplied papers, magazines and correspondence facilities-the most felt want in the camp-music and entertainment, and its most popular secretaries instructed to render all the service and cheer they could to the men. These tents were filled from daylight to taps, and now a National Guard camp or post is not considered by soldiers, as well as officers, as fully equipped, without the Young Men's Christian Association headquarters either on home soil or in the Philippines South Africa or Porto Rico. Since these tents were opened in the British camps, the guard house and court martials for drunkenness and insubordination and gambling have largely gone out of business, and thousands of dollars which were formerly squandered, have been sent home through the Young Men's Christian Association postoffice.

The greatest possible appreciation is shown by the British officers and men. Crowded informal meetings are held every evening and on Sunday. One evening the officers of a brigade, headed by the chaplain, filed into the Young Men's Christian Association tent. The major sang; a captain played the accompaniment; a short address was given by the chaplain, and then followed songs by a sergeant major, a corporal and others, the whole con-cluding with the hearty singing of some good hymns. During the time the men are off duty the cluding with the nearty singing of some good hymns. During the time the men are off duty the crowds are immense. In four days at one tent 19,13 letters and cards were written and posted; 28i temperance and anti-gambling pledges were taken; $2i5 was expended by the men in postal orders to be sent home to their familles, and $160 was taken in the sale of postage stamps.

The Pennsylvania Young Men's Christian Association State committee furnished this summer three big tents and nearly thirty of its secretaries to the National Guard camps, where some ten thousand men were in training. At the camp at Perkasie, which broke up last night, the tent was visited by a thousand soldiers daily, and more than seven thousand letters were written and mailed from there. Six barrels of ice water a day were supplied Quoits and baseball and athletic equipment were in daily use, and the gramophone ground out hymns and the popular songs of the day with equal appreciation by the men.

One New-York company votes $100 each year from its treasury to the association to show its appreciation, and a Pennsylvania company does the same. A brigadler major of a Canadian regiment said of one of the encampments: "This has been a clean camp, and the Young Men's Christian Association has made it so."

Physicians Say He Is Out of Danger. The physicians attending Senator William A. Clark, who on Saturday was operated on for an abscess at the base of the brain at his apartment at No. 175 West 58th-st., said yesterday afternoon that their patient was doing well.

Dr. William D. Mason, an assistant of Dr James F. McKernon of No. 62 West 52d-st. who performed the operation, was at the Clark apartment all night, closely watching the Senator's condition. Dr. McKernon visited the house at 9:30 and stayed a considerable time The physician said when he left the house that Senator Clark had slept well and appeared to be improving, and that he was much encouraged by the patient's condition.

Dr. Louis B. Morris, the Senator's son-in-law, and Dr. McKernon visited him at 7 p. m. and remained for an hour. On their departure Dr. Morris said that Senator Clark was resting easlly and had done so all day, and that there was no danger. He was emphatic in the announcement of the absence of danger. He added that the Senator had received a cable dispatch from his wife in Paris.

J. Ross Clark, a brother of the Senator, and three trained nurses were with the patient all

Dr. McKernon called at 8 o'clock. He remained but a few moments in the sick chamber. Before leaving the house he would only say that the Senator was doing as well as expected. While the information made public is all in favor of the patient, the gravity of the Senator's condition is not withheld from the family. They are aware that it will be at least four days before his ultimate safety can be assured.

Mrs. Clark, who is in Paris, has been advised of the exact condition of the Senator in a cable gram sent by the Senator's private secretary vesterday. It is not expected that any change will be made in Mrs. Clark's plans abroad or that she will leave before next Friday, when she will be told of the Senator's exact condition.

Senator Clark's temperature this morning was ninety-nine degrees. It did not rise above this point during the day which is considered a favorable indication. He rested well during the night for one in the condition following an operation of such gravity.

The abscess from which Senator Clark was suffering, was the result of the suppuration of the middle ear on the left side, the bone having become diseased and the pus from the diseased part filtering into the brain.

J. H. Anderson, secretary to Senator Clark, said last night

The operation performed on Senator Clark was a secondary one for mastolditis, or inflammation of the mastold process. A year ago last December Senator Clark had a similar operation performed. At that time a piece of the mastold bone about an inch in length was removed and the remaining bone scraped. The skin was replaced and the wound healed nicely.

Dr. McKernon said that an operation was not necessary, and that, aithough troubled somewhat from the old wound, there was no danger of serious results. The Senator is a man of few words and quick decision, and he decided upon an operation. He did not think it necessary to tell his relatives, as it was not a serious enough matter. Yesterday at 1 p. m. gas was administered to the Senator, but, as it was not satisfactory, chloroform was used, and he remained under the influence of it until 4 p. m. He was on the operating table just forty minutes. The skin was laid back from the bone, which was scraped, and small pieces were removed. He is doing nicely now and is entirely cut of danger. There was no abscess of the brain, and consequently no operation for one.

At 6 p. m. on Saturday Senator Clark sent a cable message to his wife, in Paris, informing her of the operation and his recovery and that he would sail to join her in about ten days. DOBBS FERRY ARRESTS.

Police Change Marked Course and Catch Many Drivers.

The police of Dobbs Ferry, tired of seeing automobiles rushing through the town in clouds of dust, yesterday made several arrests, after elaborate arrangements had been made for timing the speeders. Among those arrested were A. B. Laudspeeders. Among those arrested were A. B. Laud-man, a broker, of No. 49 Broadway; C. K. Smoot, of the St. Regis Hotel, and John F. Plummer, of Irvington, a member of the Union League Club. They were taken before Justice Charles G. Storms, who fined each man $10. All paid promptly, except Mr. Plummer. He protested emphatically that he had not been exceeding the speed limit—ten miles an hour—and threatened to take the case up through all the courts. The police said that his machine was going twenty-six miles and hour.

The Dobbs' Ferry police had a mile marked off on North Broadway, where they timed the speeders, but automobile drivers learned of this, so the watching post was changed to South Broadway, near the Hastings line. ITALIAN CHURCH FETE.

Hundreds Honor Our Lady of Mount Carmel.

The East 110th-st. Italian settlement is celebrating the feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel. The feast lasts three days, and is the principal feast of the Italian Catholic church. The festivities began Saturday and will last until midnight to-night.

Yesterday the Italian settlement was thronged, the streets in many instances being so packed that they were impassable unless one took to the middle of the road. It is estimated that, in addition to the regular residents of the quarter. no fewer than 25,000 visitors, many of them from Buffalo, Boston, Philadelphia and other cities, joined in the festivities.

There were hundreds of stands where candles, made of yellow wax and ranging in size from the ordinary candle to mammoth, elaborately decorated pieces, six feet high and six inches in diameter, were sold. These candles will be carried in the big parade, which will close the celebration, to-night. The greater portion of the purchase price of the candles goes into the treasury of the church.

Yesterday was spent in visiting, feasting and neral jollification, in addition to attending the religious exercises in the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, in East 115th-st. The church was crowded to the doors from early morning until late at night. The street decorations are the most costly and elaborate in many years. If money means a broader manhood and a larger aim and useful endeavor, it is a blessing, but men cannot live by bread alone. We are idolizing our stomachs and backs. What the world wants to-day is men who will amass golden deeds, not golden dollars. Character capital should be preferred stock. A brave man does not want money, but character. The unprincipled man's money does not always take wings. The balances do not swing even here, but our text holds good and rascality will be punished in another world.

Honesty and truth are mighty scarce. There are incorruptible men still to be found, and they are the men to save our nation. What the country wants is sermons on common honesty. Instead of preaching theological cobwebs, let us have sermons on the primary commandments, "Thou shalt not steal" and "Thou shalt not ite."

Women are largely responsible for the financial rascality of our times. The God-defying extravagance of modern society is driving bank presidents to defalcation, life insurance officers to looting. It is ruining the young men and driving them to the penifentiary. Benedict Arnold sold his country for money to keep the family wardrobe, and there are many to-day selling all that is best and dear to keep up appearances equal to those of their neighbors.

Third Church Takes Title to Old Harlem Presbyterian Building.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS TO MOVE.

The Third Church of Christ, Scientist, took title last week to the old building of the Harlem Presbyterian Church, at Madison-ave. and 125th-st. The membership of the Third Church has grown so much of late that its present place of worship at Port of New-York, Sunday, July 16, 1905. No. 80 West 126th-st. is inadequate, and it was de-termined to obtain larger quarters. The opportermined to obtain larger quarters. The oppor-tunity came recently, after the decision of the Har-lem Presbyterian Church to build a new building at Mount Morris Park West and 123d-st.

Negotiations for the purchase of the property were entered into, culminating yesterday in the transfer of the church at 125th-st. and Madison-ave. to the Third Church.

The Third Church will occupy its new home some time in August.

Only the promptest action on the part of the fire men yesterday afternoon prevented the spread of flames to several buildings in the drygoods district. As it was, the fire did $19,000 damage to stock and building in the six story brick and iron structure at Nos. 97 and 99 Bleecker-st.

The fire started on the top floor, occupied by Harris Brothers, manufacturers of suits and overconts. It had been smouldering for a long time, apparently, and when the firemen broke into the place the flames burst through the roof one hundred feet in air, and, curling across the street, threatened the ten story building occupied by the firm of J. W. Goddard & Son, of which the late F. Norton Goddard was a member. The fire, however, was confined to the two upper stories of Nos. 97

Considerable benzine was stored on the top floor and a tank of the fluid exploded just as the firemen reached the floor. They were driven back by the explosion and several were for the moment overcome by the heavy black smoke and fumes of ammonia, but they returned to work without the need of medical attendance. ammonia, but they returned to work without the need of medical attendance.

The police gave as a theory of the origin of the fire the ignition of a quantity of damp cloth and rags by the sun's rays streaming in through the window glass. Deputy Chief Kruger would not comment on that theory.

The first alarm was sent in by automatic box, and when the firemen broke into the building they unknowingly started a burglar alarm. Within a few minutes private detectives were running to the soene and were relieved to find that firemen and not burglars were at work.
